

DR. JAVIER DE CASTRO

Javier de Castro, MD, PhD, is currently Associate Professor of Clinical Oncology and Palliative Care in La Paz University Hospital, at the School of Medicine, in Universidad Autonoma de Madrid, Spain and Head of Lung Cancer Unit at La Paz University hospital and Investigational Institute la Paz (IDIPAZ).

Dr. De Castro's main research interests include basic and clinical research in lung cancer, focusing on molecular-targeted therapies and molecular biology.

Dr. De Castro is co-author of more than 150 papers, books, and book chapters in this field.

Dr. De Castro is also member of several scientific societies including the American Society of Clinical Oncology (ASCO), the European Society of Medical Oncology (ESMO), the International Association for the Study of Lung Cancer (IASCL) and the Spanish Society of Medical Oncology (SEOM).

Dr. De Castro has a wide clinical experience in lung cancer treatment development (bevacizumab, erlotiniib, crizotinib, ceritinib, etc).